In the company’s own words

As the gatekeeper to critical applications and data in 90% of organizations worldwide, Microsoft Active Directory (AD) is a prime target for attackers attempting to steal credentials and deploy ransomware across the network. Although AD is foundational to the IT infrastructure, many organizations are a step behind in securely managing it, particularly as the coronavirus pandemic accelerates the adoption of remote workers, cloud services, and devices. Semperis partners with government agencies and Global 2000 enterprises to empower comprehensive protection for their directory services on-premises and in the cloud. With Semperis, organizations can continuously monitor their directories for security vulnerabilities, intercept cyberattacks in progress, and quickly recover from ransomware and other data integrity emergencies.

“With the rise of ransomware posing a significant risk to businesses everywhere, cybersecurity programs are putting special focus on defending their identity infrastructures,” said Mickey Bresman, CEO of Semperis. “We’re on a mission to help organizations combat the deluge of escalating attacks exploiting identity systems, which is especially important for healthcare providers, pharmaceuticals, manufacturers, and others on the frontline.”

The recognition on Deloitte's Technology Fast 500 further propels Semperis' standing as the leading provider of identity-driven threat mitigation and cyber resilience for cross-cloud and hybrid environments. Semperis recently introduced new vulnerability assessment, security reporting, and auto-remediation capabilities in its latest release of Directory Services Protector (DSP), the industry’s most comprehensive AD threat detection and response platform. Other significant company milestones in 2020 include completing a $40 million Series B funding round led by Insight Partners, achieving six consecutive profitable quarters, and being named Best Business Continuity/Disaster Recovery Solution by SC Media in the 2020 SC Trust Awards.
